La Taimada, company of new scenographic formats on the expression of body and movement, premieres in the Antic Teatre stage two short pieces: Lo.li.ta and Death. Lo.li.ta, refers to Vladimir Nabokov's Lolita. The piece presents images which talk of innocence, objectual beauty and degradation; and positions the spectator to act as a voyeur. Death reaffirms the look of the spectator-voyeur to force him again to look at the beauty. This second time from the fragility given by the inanimate body.
