Pre-premiere of the new I.Boza / Senza Tempo show in Sismògraf Festival

Two artistic personalities of theatre-dance and music and its partners run in a show with high visual and sound intensity. Inés Boza, director of SenZaTeMPo, dancer and choreographer, creators of scenic worlds dancing on top of the stylistic boundaries and Giulia Valle composer and bass player, architect of complex and intense musical compositions, but extremely capturer, which suggest the soundtrack of an invisible reality.

Consuelo's Corner is an 'empty' dance room, lost time between sunset and sunrise. A public and festive space becomes a quiet corner, giving rise to the characters that appear on the scene, five musicians and five dancers, to recreate stories of desire inspired by the seven deadly sins. Interpreters confront us with platitudes and human landscapes that are close to us, weaving a work of compassion that sails between misery and grandeur, desolation and humour.
