

Associació de Companyies
Professionals de Dansa
de Catalunya

From the ACPDC we want to continue entertaining during the de-escalation and so here are a few videos from the various companies of our association for you to watch. We also would like to inform you of the latest news and activities from our associates.

COBOSMIKA

During the lockdown, CobosMika has continued providing quality vocational training for its students. With the complicity of new technologies, the company have developed an on-line program with a complete range of personalized classes together with its teaching team and guest choreographers from around the world such as Jos Baker, Anton Lachky, Roser López Espinosa, Bea Vergés, Charly Bouges, Guy Shomroni and Yaniv Abraham. In addition, CobosMika continues working to start the face-to-face activity and preparing the upcoming course with a new project adapted to the new safety and hygiene measures, but with the same level of excellence and enhancing the creativity that characterizes its philosophy.

Below some links to see some of the company's works:

THOMAS NOONE DANCE

Thomas Noone Dance is currently working on its mid and long term projects although there are also plans for the immediate future. Thomas Noone is currently in the studio preparing a workshop based on the company practice, a method called “Conscious Reduction” aimed at professional dancers and that will take place in Fabra and Coats (Barcelona) from the 3rd to the 9th of August.

Parallel to this research, Thomas Noone, and longtime collaborator Alba Barral, are working, albeit at distance (!), on the duet Less. Projected for last April, this duo will now see its premiere in September and as with Less, the company continues to relocate the various shows canceled due to the health crisis of the last few months. The aim is to gradually return to normality, retaking the activities of exhibition, training and creation and using culture to bring people back together.

Meanwhile you also have a selection of clips from the companies repertoire on the company's Vimeo platform:
