This November, Mal Pelo presents two performances of WE, a work by María Muñoz and Pep Ramis for twelve performers from different backgrounds and generations. The show will be staged on 13 November at Teatre Kursaal in Manresa (Barcelona province) and on 15 November at Teatre El Jardí in Figueres (Girona province).

Taking the question “What do we leave in the palm of our hand for future generations?” as its starting point, WE explores the relationships between individuals and society, memory and inheritance, identity and culture. The piece also reflects on the loss of the reference points and places that help us define who we are.

The production is an international co-production involving, among others, Mercat de les Flors, Centro Danza Matadero, El Canal, Temporada Alta and several French national theatres. WE was a finalist at the 2026 Godot Awards in the Best Contemporary Dance Choreography category.
